

NIC

Contracts Manager

I'm a Contracts Manager for United House. The job entails overseeing quite often several contracts at any one time, ensuring that they run to time and, most importantly for the client, that they run to budget. The thing I find most enjoyable about the job is the fact that we work in varied environments. We can be in tower blocks right the way through to street properties. And, given the different types of design of those buildings, there are always fresh challenges that are ever present.

One of the things I like is that being a privately owned company, you are a name and a personality and you are not just a roll number on a wage slip. United House sponsored me for an NVQ Level 5 course, which I passed successfully, and that then gave me the springboard on to managing to acquire full membership for the Chartered Institute of Builders.

